President's visit to the White House

Polish and US Presidents, Andrzej Duda and Donald Trump, agreed on Wednesday that Polish-American relations have never been better.

Enhanced defence cooperation through development of plans to strengthen military ties and the start of a new chapter in energy cooperation through a partnership to develop nuclear energy are foreseen in a joint declaration between the Polish and US presidents. They signed the statement after the White House talks.

Joint Statement by President Andrzej Duda and President Donald J. Trump

President Andrzej Duda paid a visit to the White House where he spoke with the American president face-to-face after which talks were held between delegations under the leadership of the two presidents.
