President commends security services for WYD 2016, NATO summit

I bow my head before your professionalism and commitment, President Andrzej Duda said Saturday addressing security officers distinguished for their work during July's World Youth Day event in Krakow and NATO summit in Warsaw.

Speaking to several hundred officers from various uniformed services in the Police Training Centre in Legionowo by Warsaw, Andrzej Duda said their work during the two events helped build Poland's image as a safe, efficiently-run and strong state.

"I bow my head before your professionalism and commitment, you showed that Poland is a safe, well-functioning country", the president said.

Earlier in the Legionowo centre 390 security officers from the Government Protection Bureau (BOR), the police, the border guard, the national fire brigade and the voluntary fire brigade received congratulatory letters from Interior Minister Mariusz Blaszczak.

Also attending the ceremony were National Security Bureau (BBN) head Pawel Soloch, deputy Interior Minister Jaroslaw Zielinski and national police chief Jaroslaw Szymczyk.
